Rolls-Royce Derby Campus: site changes and road closure

The main Derby site

Proposed realignment of Victory Road

Introduction

You may recall that we wrote to you last year, and held a consultation event, about our plans to modernise our Derby campus and realign Victory Road, to make it fit for the 21st Century. This represents a significant investment and signifies our ongoing commitment to operating in Derby.

We were pleased to receive planning consent in September 2015 and are now moving forward with our plans.

We will be making some minor changes to our consented designs, to improve how we can operate around the site, including better footways and cycle lanes. We will also be reducing the height of part of the noise barrier at the eastern end of the site, although this will not adversely impact our neighbours. We are also progressing the statutory process for closing the part of Victory Road that will not be required once the new road is built and open. To help illustrate these we have annotated the changes on the plan opposite.

Subject to those being approved, later this year we will start to build the new, realigned section of Victory Road, illustrated on the diagram to the left in green. When it is ready next year, we will close the stretch of road in red, which will then become part of our site.

We are holding a further local public information event to share details of these changes and to ensure that everyone has opportunity to comment on 6 September. You can find more details overleaf. Alternatively, you can visit our website at www.rolls-royce.com/derby_campus/
